Foreword

Upon graduation, our years at Plainfield High School will become to most of us no more than a fond memory. The work, the fun, the activities—all the experiences that made life at Plainfield High School what it was will blend together in our minds to form a single impression. To better appreciate this impression, we can compare each of the parts of school life to a portion of a complete picture. Each division in this yearbook represents a part of this picture.

Moreover, each person has his own picture of Plainfield High School as it appeared to him. This picture will of necessity be clear in some places and hazy in others, for each of us recalls particular memories. Every individual picture will be different because every person is different. These pictures combine, however, to form one complete work—Our Portrait of Plainfield High School.

FACULTY

When an artist paints a picture on a canvas, he begins with an idea which he hopes to portray. We may call this idea his theme. As we paint our picture on these pages, we too have in mind a theme, education. In a sense the faculty may be considered brushes with which we convey this theme to our canvas of words.

Principal

Wallace F. Gleason

During this year of tragedy and turmoil, this class climbed to great heights. It was this year that three students received the highest merit rating in the State of New Jersey. Students made outstanding contributions to science. And the class, as a whole, made great progress in setting standards for the school. As you reflect upon your progress over the past three years, you will remember the day you entered and found a huge building with many winding corridors. As the years passed, you learned how to move through these narrow halls in the proper direction. So it was in life; there were twists and turns which brought both joy and sadness, and as you learned how to get around in the building, you learned how to steer your life toward success. Now you graduate, satisfied that you have been given the necessary tools for life. May you continue to be successful with the use of these tools.

In Memoriam

We at Plainfield High School deeply mourn the passing of Miss Rita Kramer. During her years in the English Department here, Miss Kramer was an energetic contributor to the life of our school. In the classroom she was a teacher in the truest sense of the word. In Assembly Committee and Drama Club she inspired those who had the privilege to participate with her in producing the finest quality work.

Although her role has ended with the falling curtain, we will retain many warm memories of Miss Kramer, who showed us by her fine example what it means to be an actress on the stage of life.

SENIORS

The seniors had a duty to fulfill. They were to use the brushes of the faculty and, with the aid of the underclassmen, combine the colors and shapes available, adding their own highlights. With the completion of three years, this picture is now uniquely representative of the class that painted it.

CLASS HISTORY 1964

'Tis education forms the common mind!

CLASS OF '64 IN REVIEW

It was back on September 6, 1961, that the first few dubious sophomores entered the halls of PHS, which was to be their educational habitat for the next two or three years. It was Sophomore Orientation Day, and among other ceremonies we were to hear a speech by our principal, Mr. Wallace F. Gleason. Along with several more messages by Mr. Gleason, we also listened that year to informal chats by such varied personalities as two PTA Presidents, innumerable enlistment officers, Ann Landers, candidates for class and Student Council offices, our foreign exchange students, and Mr. Sierge. These many inspiring talks instilled in the students a will to succeed, as manifested in the smallest dropout rate in PHS history.

It cannot be denied that in the first few weeks many of the sophomores were subjected to good-natured hazing by the upper-classmen. This uncomfortable and embarrassing practice should be abolished, we decided, and all vowed that in the years to come we would not heap ridicule on the incoming sophomore classes. After buying the S. A. T. and the first Entree, the Class of '64 settled down to the election of officers. Those selected were Forrester Lee, President; Gordon Maas, Vice-President; Sue Schmidt, Secretary; and Joe Young, Treasurer. As the year progressed, the sophomore class was found to be a welcome commodity sportswise, giving promise of future varsity success.

The class' first independent venture was the ingeniously planned Sophomore Dance, which netted our treasury $.87. Soon after, class dues were instituted.

After scrambling through a trying year, we returned to PHS as juniors. Most of our spare time was occupied with heaping ridicule on the incoming sophomore class. Class officers were Forrester Lee, President; Joe Young, Vice-President; Sue Schmidt, Secretary; and John Norton, Treasurer. In an effort to raise money, the class sold PHS bracelets and held another, more successful dance. A highlight of our junior year was a second straight victory in the hotly contested Interclass Play Competition.

With two good years behind us, a confident Class of '64 entered its senior year. Forrester Lee was re-elected class president. Picked to serve with him were Vice-President Ruth Campbell, Secretary Lisa Mitchell, and Treasurer Paul Kiely. These four took on, in addition to their numerous regular duties, the onerous burden of organizing class reunions. Meanwhile, our pre-eminent position as the greatest class in the greatest school anywhere was solidified when three PHS seniors, Alan Wachtel, Arthur Goldhammer, and William Holaday, obtained the highest scores in all New Jersey on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test. For our Senior Play, the English farce, The Importance of Being Earnest, was performed. Coupled with the suspense of college applications were the Hall of Fame elections, held in December. By midyear, the days to graduation were being counted off one by one.

Our eminent position was enhanced when we won the Inter-Class Play Award and Barry Kohn was judged Best Actor.

In early June, the Prom was held at the Redwood Inn, and on June 16, 1964, 502 of us bade farewell to an institution that has molded our lives for three very important years. Some of us are going on to further schooling, others to work, some into the services. Many will leave Plainfield and travel to other parts of the country or even to other parts of the world. Let us hope, though, that class reunions will feature 100% attendance, and that all of us will remember our sometimes happy, sometimes sad, but always unique years at Plainfield High School.

Senior Class Council And Officers

The senior class council acts as the representative of the entire class in the many activities which that class performs. Among the more significant of these were the supervision of the Senior Play, the obtaining of senior privileges, the selection of a class gift, and, of course, the entire planning and execution of the traditional Senior Prom. We are especially indebted to the class officers, Forrester Lee, Ruth Campbell, Lisa Mitchell, and Paul Kiely, for their part in these important functions.

Foreign Exchange Student

Susana Chiquito

Our foreign exchange student this year is Susana Chiquito, a senior who hails originally from Guayaquil, Ecuador. Although she lives with sophomore Kitty Frickel, Susie is an integral part of the senior class, participating in such varied activities as Spanish Club, Drama Club, and the Plainfield chapter of the American Field Service. Susie's ambition is to be a pediatrician. In time, she will return to Ecuador to further her education toward this goal.

Feverish efforts reach a climax as opening night approaches.

"Here? Now? But what will the neighbors say?"

The Class of 1964 will always remember its hilarious production of The Importance of Being Earnest. Special thanks must be given to Miss Virginia Mixer whose inspired direction made this wonderful production a reality. At times even Miss Mixer wondered whether the play would ever be ready, but on the evenings of November 1 and 2 a performance was given of which everyone could be proud. This is Miss Mixer's last year at P.H.S. It is our last year, too. We will leave with the memory of a wonderful and devoted woman and of a fine senior play!

"Heartburn, my dear Miss Prism, heartburn."

UNDERCLASSMEN

The underclassmen have started to create their individual picture, but their materials differ from those of the seniors, varying as the years vary, and changing with the changes wrought by the classes involved.

JUNIORS

As juniors we eagerly anticipated the arrival of the new class rings, and perhaps not so eagerly the taking of Preliminary SAT's. The major fund raising event of the Junior Class was the semi-formal Junior Dance, which was held on January 31. Other activities accomplished during the year were the successful candy sale and the completion of the class banner.

Under the capable leadership of President Jack Comune, Vice-President Sue Goldman, Secretary Robin Kartagener, and Treasurer Buddy Herzog, this has been an important year for the Class of 1965.

SOPHOMORES

Dazed and bewildered, the sophomores started the year with mad scrambles between classes, stubborn locker doors, and frightening bumps into upperclassmen. As the year progressed they found that there are no elevators, that upperclassmen are just "regular guys," and that all a locker needs is a well-planted kick.

Once settled, the Class of 1966 began its high school career with the election of officers: Russell Passarella, President; Marian Lee, Vice-President; Sharon Owens, Secretary; and Kay Meaney, Treasurer. A highly successful class dance was the highlight of the social season.

With one rewarding year behind them the Sophomore Class is looking forward to its future years at PHS.

Football

Coach Abe Smith's varsity football team concluded another highly successful season, capturing the Central Jersey Group IV crown for yet another year. A superlative 7-1-1 record was marred only by a scoreless tie with Woodbridge and a narrow 14-12 loss to Westfield. The team effort was led by All-State quarterback Paul Kiely and center Joe Tumolo, with the able assistance of Scott Lewendon, Everett Ellis, Bob Howell, Bob Smith, and underclassmen Vic Washington, Jack Comune, and Jim Cabbell. With the return of these lettermen, prospects are bright for still another winning season.

Cross Country

Fillmore Wood

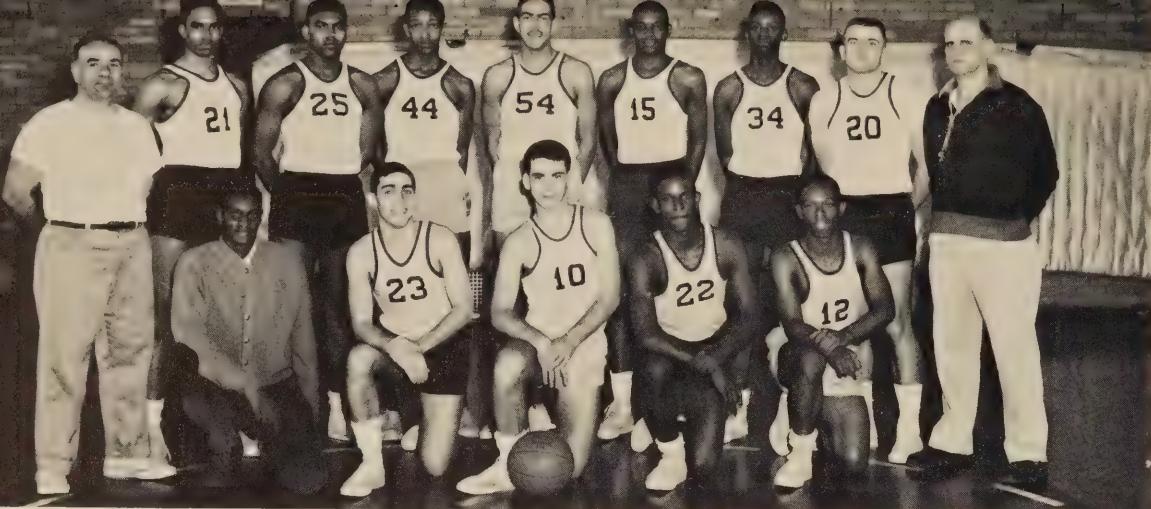

Under the vigorous leadership of Coach John Pepe, the cross country team led off the season with victories over Union and Woodbridge. Then, suddenly, the harriers could not find the right combination and remained winless until the last meet with Cranford, completing the season with a 3-10 record.

Three returning lettermen, Fillmore Wood, Steve Dudley, and Paul Carey, formed the backbone of the team. They were ably assisted by such talented newcomers as Tim Kleiner and Bill Schneckloth, whose return next year is eagerly awaited.

Coach Bill Brann's experienced forces vastly improved last year's record. Despite numerous narrow defeats, the team compiled a 5-16 record, with a three-game winning streak accounting for most of the victories. Outstanding seniors included Reggie Foster, Rich Jaffe, and Tim Alexander, who was named to the New York News Honorable Mention team. With many underclassmen returning next year, hopes are high for an even more successful season.

Swimming

The Plainfield swim team, under the direction of Coach Vic Liske, completed its thirtieth consecutive winning season. Bolstered by a fine crop of sophomores, the team won nine meets while losing four. Leading the seniors were individual record setters Ken Spaulding and Jeff Cordiano. The freestyle relay quartet, composed of Spaulding, Cordiano, Len Kravitz, and Spike Lattin, capped a fine season by placing second in the state championships.

Under the guidance of coaches Gilbert Young and Bill Wolgamuth, the PHS team concluded the season with an outstanding record of 11-6. The success of the team was due in large part to the contributions of seniors Trace Stout, Bert Kendall, Kirk Oakes, Walter Frank, and several outstanding underclassmen, including Bruce Miller and Rich Jaffe.

Bruce and Roger practice their doubles.

In his final season as track coach at PHS, Marshall Brown led his 1963 team into another impressive season. Coach Brown developed such stars as Paul Wilson, who burned up the cinders in the hurdles. George Platt turned in record performances in the high jump with a 6'3" high mark. Also returning were Mike Barrett and Scott Lewendon, distance runners who helped set a school record in the distance relay. The popular Plainfield mentor closed out a ten-year term with a 3-3 dual meet record, bringing his career total to 52 wins and 10 losses.

Wilson leads the pack in dash.

Baseball

Jerry Bowley jars loose the ball.

The PHS baseball team completed a victorious season, winning eleven while losing only nine. The team was almost invincible at home, winning eight of eleven played at Randolph Field. There were several serious injuries this year, including Harry Fisher's broken hand and Ralph Lombardi's broken collarbone; these and others damaged the PHS nine's chances for a better record. Even with a cast on his hand, Harry Fisher managed to lead the club in hitting with an average of .333.

Ronnie Davis rears back.

Butch Lynch sets out for first base.

B. Hinkel, J. Tumolo, J. Del Monte, T. Piwowar, J. Knight, P. Keily, L. Jones, J. De Fillips, J. Lynch, D. Scott, R. Davis, R. Impaglialetti, H. Fisher.

Ye Olde Almanack and Chronicle of Eventes of the Mommentous Period of 1963-1964

September. It was September again, and we all began "creeping like snail (sic), unwillingly to school."

October. If you blinked, you missed the World Series . . . Because of circulatory difficulties, the New York Mirror was forced to cease publication, leaving the field wide open to its major competitor, the Entree . . . We all enjoyed the Fall Mixer.

November. Yogi Berra was named the new manager of the Yankees, narrowly edging out Mr. Jack Liddy . . . The senior play, The Importance of Being Earnest, closed after a record two performances . . . Duong Van Minh gained an upset victory over Ngo Dinh Diem in South Viet Nam . . . A lucky Westfield football team narrowly defeated their vastly superior Plainfield foes, 14-12 . . . A shocked and saddened nation mourned the death of President John F. Kennedy.

December. Seniors tackled the task of taking college boards with renewed disgust . . . An invasion of giant Beatles began to infest the country. DDT proved useless.

January. A government report condemned smoking as a cause of lung cancer. Mr. Wolgammuth cut down to four packs a day . . . A confused faculty team edged a talented senior pentatriaconte in the annual basketball game. February. With their grades already reported to colleges, seniors proceeded to indulge in a well-earned slump . . . The dedicated Milestone staff slaved far into the night in anticipation of the imminent deadline . . . A new club began to take Forum . . . Cassius "The Greatest" Clay out-talked Sonny Liston in a seven-round fiasco.

March. Another responsible example of democratic government unfolded — Student Council elections . . . Only 69 days left for seniors . . . Despite valiant efforts by the underclassmen, the Class of 1964 won the Inter-class Plays trophy for the third consecutive year . . . Amid cheers of disbelief, Plaintalk editors finally published another issue.

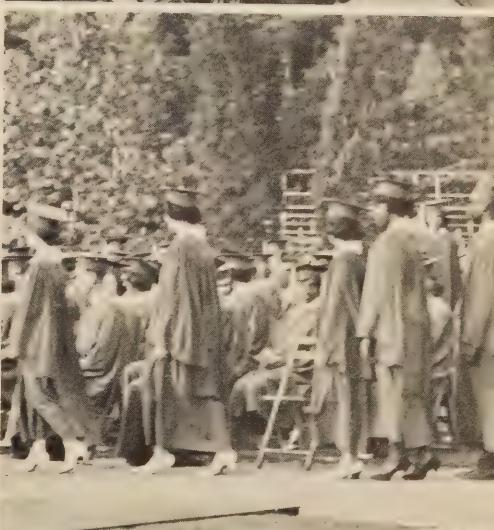

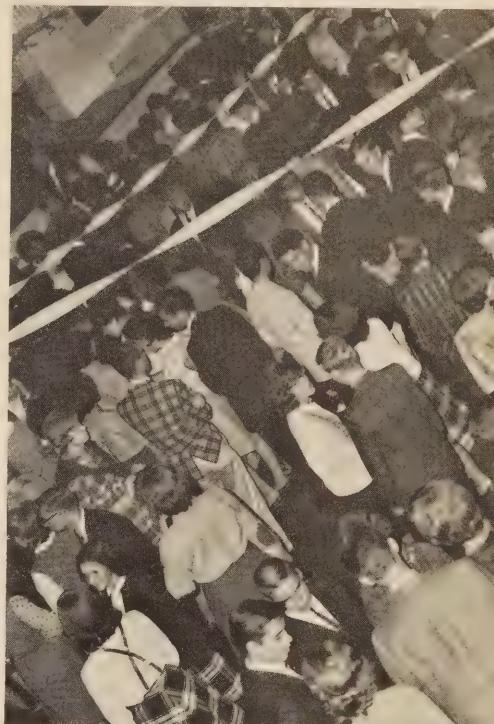

April. Seniors wore looks of gaiety or despondency as college acceptances and rejections began to flow in . . . Students afflicted with vernal pyrexia (that is, spring fever) resented having to stay awake in class . . . The glorious 1964-65 World's Fair opened in New York amid protests that it should have been held in Guthrie Center, Iowa.

May. Only one more month now . . . We again took delight in listening to the Spring Choral Festival, which presented "Peacable Kingdom." . . . Gifted seniors took Advanced Placement tests, only to find out that they were not so gifted after all.

June. A month of the wonderful Senior Prom, nerve-racking final exams, well-deserved senior privileges, and finally, GRADUATION. It was the end of a year, but the beginning of a lifetime.
